Tidy Pro Independent Contractor and Platform Agreement

This Agreement governs a cleaning provider's access to Tydio, acceptance of customer bookings, and receipt of payments through the platform. Each accepted booking establishes a separate service agreement between the provider and the customer for the services described in that booking.

1 Parties and effective date

This Agreement is between Tydio LLC, a Georgia limited liability company doing business as Tydio ("Tydio"), with a business address of 3133 Maple Dr, Ste 240, Atlanta, GA 30305, and the individual or legal entity identified in the acceptance record or signature block ("Provider" or "Tidy Pro"). If Provider is a legal entity, the accepting individual represents that they are authorized to bind it.

The Agreement takes effect when Provider affirmatively accepts it electronically or, if signed separately, on the date of the last signature. Platform access remains subject to completion of applicable onboarding and eligibility requirements.

2 Platform and customer relationship

Tydio operates a technology marketplace through which customers request cleaning services and eligible providers review and accept bookings. Under this Agreement, Provider supplies cleaning services to customers; Tydio supplies platform access, booking tools, and payment facilitation. Tydio does not undertake to perform the cleaning services under a customer booking.

When Provider accepts a booking, Provider and the customer agree to its stated services, property location, scheduled time, disclosed price, and any mutually accepted changes. Provider must not represent that they are Tydio's employee or have authority to bind Tydio to promises, guarantees, or obligations.

Services may include standard cleaning, deep cleaning, individual cleaning services, and home organization only where offered and expressly included in the booking. Provider is not required to perform undisclosed or unauthorized work. Changes in scope and price must be agreed through the platform's authorized process before additional work begins.

3 Independence and booking choice

Provider may choose their availability and which booking offers to accept or decline. No minimum number of bookings or hours is required by this Agreement. Tydio does not guarantee bookings, earnings, or continued customer demand. Provider may operate an independent business, advertise their services, and work for other customers or competing platforms without exclusivity.

Provider controls their cleaning methods, sequence of work, and business operations, subject to the agreed booking scope, lawful customer access instructions, applicable law, and platform safety and conduct rules. Provider supplies the tools, equipment, transportation, and materials needed for accepted services, except where the booking expressly states that the customer supplies particular items. Provider must account for customer-disclosed product restrictions before accepting or performing work.

After accepting a booking, Provider must honor the agreed time and location or use the cancellation or rescheduling process. Choosing whether to accept work does not permit Provider to change an accepted appointment unilaterally. Time estimates are estimates of effort, not instructions to work unsafely or guarantees that every property takes the same time.

The parties intend an independent business relationship. Provider is responsible for applicable business expenses and taxes, and receives no employee benefits under this Agreement. These statements do not waive statutory rights or determine classification contrary to applicable law. Actual operations must remain consistent with the relationship described here.

4 Eligibility identity and helpers

Provider must provide accurate account, identity, business, tax, and payment information; keep it current; be at least 18 years old; and hold any licenses, registrations, or permits legally required for their services. Provider must complete Tydio's disclosed eligibility and identity requirements before receiving access to restricted booking functions.

Any background screening must be conducted under the applicable screening disclosures, authorization, and review procedures. This Agreement does not replace separately required screening notices or consent. Any screening charge and its refund or reimbursement terms must be disclosed before payment. Screening is not a promise of future conduct or a guarantee of safety.

Provider must not sell, share, or transfer their account or allow another person to work under their identity. No helper, substitute, or subcontractor may enter a customer's property through a booking without prior approval through Tydio's authorized process and the customer's agreement. Any approved participant must meet applicable eligibility requirements. Provider remains responsible for their lawful business obligations concerning approved personnel.

5 Booking performance and safety

Provider must perform accepted services with reasonable care and skill and follow applicable laws and lawful property-access instructions. Provider must accurately report arrival, progress, and completion. A completion status may be submitted only after the agreed work is completed or an authorized resolution of unfinished work is documented. Completing work is not established merely by a timer expiring.

Provider must report material delays, access failures, scope discrepancies, and inability to complete work through the platform as soon as reasonably practicable. Provider must not enter unapproved rooms, use customer property without permission, or bring unauthorized people or animals to the premises.

Provider may decline unsafe work or leave an unsafe situation and promptly report it to Tydio. Provider must not perform hazardous-material remediation, biohazard cleanup, or other specialized work outside the services offered and their qualifications. In immediate danger, Provider should contact emergency services before relying on platform support. Tydio's reporting tools are not emergency-response services.

Harassment, discrimination, threats, violence, theft, intentional property damage, sexual misconduct, fraudulent activity, and work while impaired by alcohol or drugs are prohibited. Incidents, injuries, damage, and suspected privacy or security breaches must be reported promptly and accurately. Nothing restricts lawful reports to police, regulators, insurers, or legal advisers.

6 Booking price platform fee and tips

For each offer, the platform must display the service price and Provider's expected earnings before Provider accepts. Provider agrees to the disclosed price by accepting that booking. The "Service Price" means the booking price attributable to the cleaning services, excluding tips, separately stated taxes, separately stated customer payment-processing fees, and separately stated customer-only platform charges. For any additional service-price adjustment, Provider's acceptance and this Agreement govern.

Tydio's platform fee is 20% of the Service Price, and Provider's service earnings are 80% of the Service Price. Provider receives 100% of customer tips actually collected and not refunded or reversed. No Tydio commission applies to tips.

Provider's 80% service earnings are calculated on the Service Price, excluding separately charged customer payment-processing fees, taxes, and tips. No card-processing or Connect fees are deducted from Provider's 80% earnings or tips. Tydio bears Connect fees. Separately disclosed customer processing charges are applied toward the processor's charges and are not part of the 80/20 earnings split.

Schedule A states processing-fee allocation, treatment of promotions, cancellation and service-resolution compensation, screening charges, and payout timing. Expected earnings must not be reduced through an undisclosed change after acceptance. Any lawful adjustment must have a disclosed contractual or legal basis and an itemized explanation.

7 Payment processing refunds and disputes

Customer payments and Provider disbursements are facilitated through Stripe Connect or another payment processor identified before use. Provider must complete the processor's onboarding and maintain an eligible connected account and payout destination, and agree to the applicable processor terms. Provider authorizes Tydio to facilitate collection of booking payments and deduction of the disclosed platform fee.

Marking a booking complete does not promise an immediate bank deposit. A transfer credits Provider's Stripe balance; a payout sends available funds to Provider's bank or other eligible destination. For ordinary completed bookings, Tydio initiates transfer of eligible earnings after the job is accurately marked complete. Cancellation compensation, customer no-access compensation, and payments for reviewed completed tasks are exceptions governed by Schedule A and may be released after the applicable cancellation or service-resolution record is processed, without falsely marking unperformed work complete. If Provider has not completed the required payment-account setup, transfer is deferred until that setup is complete.

Stripe supports daily, weekly, monthly, and manual payout schedules. Under a daily schedule, available funds are sent every business day; a daily schedule does not mean each booking is paid into a bank account on the next day. Standard U.S. card-payment settlement is generally two business days from payment capture, not from job completion. A transfer may remain pending until the associated funds become available. The applicable live connected-account settings govern payout frequency and any settlement delay.

Stripe typically schedules an initial payout to complete within 7 to 14 days after the first successful live payment, depending on the account, industry, country, and risk review. Verification, reserves, restrictions, bank processing, weekends, and holidays may extend timing. These periods are estimates and are not guaranteed arrival dates. Provider can consult the Stripe Express dashboard for available payout information and expected deposit dates. Tydio does not currently offer an in-app instant-payout feature; any optional feature available directly through Stripe depends on eligibility and separately disclosed terms and fees.

Refunds, cancellations, chargebacks, and reversals are handled under the payment and cancellation policies identified in Schedule A, subject to applicable law and processor rules. A complaint alone does not establish Provider fault. Tydio will give Provider notice and a reasonable opportunity to provide relevant evidence before a discretionary earnings adjustment, except where an immediate processor action, legal obligation, or reasonable fraud or security measure requires earlier action.

Tydio will provide an explanation of adjustments and a channel to request review. Any temporary hold must be limited to amounts and periods reasonably related to the unresolved issue or processor/legal requirement. This Agreement does not authorize blanket forfeiture of earned amounts or undisclosed bank debits. Negative-balance recovery requires an applicable disclosed authorization or other lawful basis.

Provider must not solicit or accept off-platform payment for a Tydio booking to avoid disclosed platform charges. This restriction does not create exclusivity over Provider's independently obtained customers.

8 Expenses taxes and records

Provider bears ordinary business expenses, including travel, supplies, tools, and equipment, unless a specific reimbursement is approved in writing before the expense is incurred. Provider is responsible for taxes and legally required contributions arising from their business and compensation, except amounts Tydio is legally required to collect, withhold, report, or pay.

Provider must furnish tax information reasonably required for lawful reporting through a secure process. Tydio and its processor will perform reporting required of them under applicable law. Provider should maintain their own income and expense records. No provision transfers a tax or employment obligation that the law places on Tydio.

9 Privacy confidentiality and content

Provider may use customer names, addresses, contact information, access codes, booking details, and other nonpublic information only as reasonably necessary to perform accepted services and resolve related issues. Provider must safeguard that information, must not sell it or use it for unrelated marketing, and must not retain access codes after the authorized purpose ends.

Provider must upload photos documenting completed tasks through the platform for service verification and any review of unfinished work under Schedule A. Documentation must be limited to relevant work areas and taken under the customer permissions and service-documentation notice applicable to the booking. Provider must minimize private information and avoid capturing people, access codes, private documents, or unrelated belongings. Documentation must not be published or used for unrelated purposes. Provider must promptly report loss, unauthorized access, or disclosure and cooperate reasonably with remediation.

Each party must protect the other's nonpublic business information received through this relationship. Confidentiality does not cover information lawfully public, independently developed, or lawfully obtained without a duty of confidence. Disclosure required by law is permitted; advance notice should be given when lawful and practicable. Duties continue while the information remains confidential, and legally required retention is permitted with safeguards.

Provider retains ownership of preexisting tools, methods, business materials, and intellectual property. No blanket assignment of Provider's inventions or cleaning processes is made. Provider grants Tydio a nonexclusive license to host, display, and process content Provider submits to operate the platform, display

Provider's profile, and administer bookings, subject to the Privacy Policy and applicable content permissions. Unrelated advertising use requires separate permission.

Nothing prohibits legally protected disclosures. Under 18 U.S.C. Section 1833(b), an individual may have immunity for a trade-secret disclosure made confidentially to a government official or attorney solely to report or investigate a suspected legal violation, or in a court filing made under seal. An individual bringing a retaliation claim may disclose a trade secret to their attorney and use it in the proceeding if filings containing it are under seal and disclosure is otherwise limited as required by law.

10 Insurance and responsibility for loss

Provider must maintain insurance required by law for their business and any personnel they employ. This Agreement does not itself impose an additional general-liability policy or require Provider to name Tydio as an additional insured. Any additional platform insurance eligibility requirement must be separately disclosed and accepted before it applies.

Tydio's insurance must not be represented as personal coverage for Provider or as a guarantee that a particular incident will be covered. Insurance coverage depends on the actual policy, insured status, exclusions, and claim circumstances. Provider remains responsible for their own acts and omissions to the extent provided by law. Nothing here waives claims for injury or other rights that cannot lawfully be waived.

To the extent permitted by law, Provider will indemnify Tydio against third-party claims and reasonable associated costs to the extent caused by Provider's negligent or intentional misconduct, material breach of this Agreement, or violation of law in connection with services. This obligation does not extend to the portion caused by Tydio's own negligence, misconduct, or legal violation, and does not shift nonwaivable obligations to Provider.

Tydio must give prompt notice of an indemnity claim and a reasonable opportunity for Provider to participate in the defense. No settlement binding Provider, admitting fault on their behalf, or imposing nonmonetary duties on them may be entered without their written consent, not unreasonably withheld. Defense arrangements must respect applicable insurer rights and conflicts of interest.

11 Suspension termination and outstanding bookings

Either party may terminate this Agreement prospectively by written or electronic notice without a minimum notice period. Provider may stop accepting new bookings at any time. Termination does not automatically cancel accepted bookings; those bookings must be completed, reassigned, or canceled through the applicable process, except where safety or law requires immediate action.

Tydio may temporarily restrict access where reasonably necessary to investigate credible safety, fraud, identity, payment, or material policy concerns, or to comply with law or processor requirements. Where lawful and safe, Tydio will explain the reason and provide a channel to submit information and seek review. Reporting a concern or exercising a protected right is not itself grounds for retaliation.

Earned amounts for services already performed remain payable under the disclosed payment policy, subject only to lawful, supported adjustments. Confidentiality, payment reconciliation, dispute procedures, and other provisions that by their nature need to survive will continue after termination.

12 Negotiation mediation and court proceedings

A party raising a dispute under this Agreement must send written notice describing the issue and requested resolution. Notices to Tydio may be sent to kennedicoats@tydioapp.com; notices to Provider may be sent to the verified account email. The parties will first attempt good-faith informal resolution for 30 days after receipt, unless they agree to a different period.

If unresolved, either party may request nonbinding mediation with a mutually selected neutral mediator. Mediation may occur remotely unless both parties agree otherwise. Mediator fees will be shared equally unless the parties agree otherwise or applicable law requires a different allocation. Each party bears their own legal expenses unless law or a later agreement provides otherwise. The mediator assists the parties in seeking a voluntary settlement and has no authority under this Agreement to impose a binding decision. Neither party is required to accept a proposed settlement.

If no mediator is agreed within 15 days after a mediation request, or no settlement is reached within 60 days after that request, either party may pursue the dispute in a court with jurisdiction. The parties may extend these periods in writing. A mediated settlement binds the parties only when they accept its terms in a signed written or electronic settlement agreement.

This Agreement does not require binding arbitration or waive a jury trial. Either party may bring an eligible small-claims action, seek urgent interim court relief, make a government-agency report, or file a proceeding necessary to preserve a claim before a deadline without first completing these steps. These procedures do not shorten a statutory filing period or automatically pause its running. No exclusive court venue is imposed by this Agreement.

13 Related policies changes and general terms

Georgia law governs this Agreement, except where federal law or another jurisdiction's mandatory protections apply. Applicable statutory rights remain available. Provider may not transfer the account or this Agreement without Tydio's prior written approval. Any approved successor must satisfy applicable onboarding and confidentiality requirements.

This Agreement, including Schedule A, and accepted booking details form the agreement concerning Provider's use of the platform and related services. The Privacy Policy made available through the platform describes data handling and does not authorize uses beyond applicable law; no unidentified future policy is incorporated into this Agreement. For a conflict concerning the Provider relationship, this Agreement controls over general platform Terms; booking details govern only booking-specific scope, time, location, and price. A separate customer contract cannot impose new obligations on Tydio without its agreement.

Material changes to compensation, deductions, insurance obligations, or dispute procedures require advance disclosure and affirmative electronic or written acceptance before applying prospectively. Changes do not retroactively reduce earnings on accepted bookings or alter an existing dispute without agreement. Other amendments must be recorded and accepted by both parties. Failure to enforce a provision once does not waive later enforcement.

If a provision is unenforceable, the remainder continues to the extent permitted by law. The parties may enforce only lawful provisions; severability does not authorize expanding a waiver of statutory rights. This Agreement supersedes prior discussions on the same subject only to the extent they are addressed here.

Schedule A Payment cancellation and service resolution terms

This schedule is part of the Agreement and states the applicable payment and service-resolution policies. Tydio will retain this schedule with the accepted Agreement version and acceptance record.

Platform commission: 20% of the Service Price. Provider service earnings: 80% of the Service Price, plus 100% of tips actually collected and not refunded or reversed.

Processing fees and earnings calculation: Provider receives 80% of the Service Price, and Tydio receives 20%. Separately stated customer payment-processing fees and taxes are excluded from the Service Price and the 80/20 split. Customer processing charges are applied toward Stripe's charges. No card-processing or Connect fee is deducted from Provider's service earnings or tips. Tydio pays Connect fees. Provider receives 100% of tips actually collected and not refunded or reversed. For a $100 Service Price, Provider receives $80 and Tydio's platform commission is $20; separately charged customer processing fees do not increase Provider's earnings or Tydio's commission. Any customer-facing payment fee must be separately disclosed and comply with applicable law, processor terms, and card-network requirements.

Promotions and credits: Tydio funds platform promotions and customer discounts. Provider's 80% service earnings are calculated on the Service Price before a Tydio-funded discount, so the promotion does not reduce Provider's service earnings. No card-processing or Connect fees are deducted from Provider earnings or tips.

Release and payout timing: For ordinary completed bookings, Tydio automatically initiates transfer of eligible Provider earnings when the job is accurately marked complete, without a separate routine approval step. Cancellation compensation, customer no-access compensation, and compensation for reviewed completed tasks follow the exceptions below and Section 7. Where required payment-account setup is incomplete, transfer is deferred until it is completed. Bank payouts follow the live connected account's applicable Stripe schedule and funds availability, as described in Section 7. Daily payouts, if configured, send available funds every business day. Standard U.S. card settlement is generally two business days from capture; initial payouts typically complete within 7 to 14 days after the first successful live payment, subject to account-specific review and restrictions. No particular bank-deposit date after cleaning completion is guaranteed. Stripe Express provides applicable payout information.

Late customer cancellation of an accepted booking: If the customer cancels less than 12 hours before the scheduled start, including after the scheduled start but before Provider arrives, the cancellation amount is 50% of the Service Price. Provider receives 40% of the Service Price and Tydio receives 10% of the Service Price. Separately charged payment-processing fees are excluded from these percentages and are not deducted from Provider's compensation. The customer receives a refund of the remaining 50% of the Service Price; any separately charged processing fee is nonrefundable except where otherwise required by law or processor rules. On a $200 Service Price, Provider receives $80, Tydio receives $20, and the customer receives $100 of the Service Price back. Tips and taxes are not included in the Service Price or these compensation percentages.

Provider cancellation and replacements: If Provider cancels one hour or more before the scheduled start, the customer may select up to three replacement candidates for the same booking, once per booking and without a new charge. The first candidate to accept receives the booking. The customer may instead cancel and receive the amount paid less the separately charged processing fee. If no replacement accepts, the replacement request is automatically canceled one hour before the scheduled start and the customer receives the amount paid less the processing fee. Fewer available candidates do not guarantee a replacement. If Provider cancels less than one hour before the scheduled start, the customer receives a full refund including the processing fee, which Tydio absorbs.

Early customer cancellation and unaccepted bookings: A customer canceling 12 or more hours before the scheduled start receives the amount paid less the separately charged processing fee, subject to applicable law and processor rules; Provider receives no cancellation compensation. A booking not accepted by a Provider creates no Provider compensation entitlement. Ordinary service earnings are released only following completion, with the express cancellation, no-access, and reviewed-task exceptions in this schedule. Once Provider arrives, the customer must use the reporting process rather than ordinary cancellation; refunds then follow the applicable service-resolution rules below.

Unfinished work and task photos: Tydio manually reviews uploaded photos to determine which booked tasks were completed. A task without uploaded completion photos is automatically treated as incomplete, and the Service Price attributable to that task is refunded to the customer. Provider receives 80% of the Service Price attributable only to completed tasks, and Tydio receives 20% of that completed-task amount. Provider receives no compensation for incomplete tasks. For a partially completed booking, Tydio will identify the completed and incomplete tasks and itemize the corresponding service-price allocation, refund, and earnings adjustment. This process does not require Provider to falsely mark the entire booking complete. Notice, supporting evidence, and requests for review of an erroneous determination are handled under Section 7. Payment-processing fees are excluded from task compensation and are not deducted from Provider's earnings; any additional refund required by law or processor rules remains available.

Screening fee administration: Provider pays Tydio a background-screening fee of $45, unless Tydio offers a discounted rate. Tydio arranges and pays for the check through Checkr and covers additional Checkr charges beyond the fee collected. Payment-processing costs are included in the screening fee charged to Provider and are not added as a separate charge. The fee is nonrefundable except for a duplicate charge, a Tydio ordering error, or Tydio canceling onboarding, subject to any refund required by law. Provider's withdrawal or failure to satisfy screening criteria does not itself qualify for a refund, whether before or after the check is ordered. Refunds under these exceptions are administered by Tydio. Screening notices, authorization, and any legally required review procedures remain separate from this Agreement.

Customer unavailable or no access: Provider must wait until 15 minutes after the scheduled start time or Provider's actual arrival, whichever is later, before reporting "Customer unavailable—no access" through the platform. Following a valid no-access report and resolution, Provider receives 40% of the Service Price and Tydio receives 10% of the Service Price. The remaining 50% of the Service Price is refunded to the customer. Separately charged payment-processing fees are excluded from this allocation, are not deducted from Provider's share, and are nonrefundable except where required by law or processor rules. Provider must accurately record arrival and the access issue and must not mark the cleaning completed to obtain this compensation.

Provider no-show: A confirmed Provider no-show results in a full refund to the customer, including the separately charged payment-processing fee. Tydio absorbs that processing fee, Provider receives no compensation for the missed booking, and Provider's account is flagged for review under Section 11. A flag is a review trigger rather than an automatic monetary penalty.

14 Electronic acceptance and signatures

Tydio offers this Agreement through its authorized onboarding process. Provider may accept by reviewing the accessible agreement, checking an initially unchecked acceptance box, and selecting "Agree and Continue," with clear notice that these actions constitute an electronic signature. Paper or separately executed electronic signatures may also be used.

Tydio will retain the accepted agreement version, Provider's identity or account identifier, acceptance timestamp, and an acceptance audit record, and make a copy available to Provider. Tydio's authorized approval or execution must also be recorded. The acceptance record identifies the parties and effective date; no handwritten signature or third-party signing service is required solely by this Agreement.

Acceptance text: "I have read and agree to the Tidy Pro Independent Contractor and Platform Agreement, including Schedule A. By checking this box and selecting Agree and Continue, I intend to sign this Agreement electronically."
